

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Preamble.

SEC. 3. And whereas, experience has proved that the payment of a proper rate of interest upon deposits will promote economy and industry, and create a fund which, under proper regulations, securing punctuality in payments, may be safely advanced upon long loans, to be repaid in suitable instalments; and, whereas, the concentration of capital and credit under such regulations, would enable the Company by such loan, to give profitable employment to labor, and aid in the development of the agricultural, mining, manufacturing, and other industrial resources of this and the other States; and inasmuch as the greater security for the repayment of such deposits will tend to lessen the rate of interest to be paid thereon; therefore, in case of deposits, which are subject to be withdrawn by check or by order, the person making such deposits may agree with the said company that there shall be deposited with the Treasurer of this State, or with some other person as trustee, bonds of the United States, or of one of the said States, or such other securities as may be agreed on, for a sum equal to the deposit so made, which deposit the Treasurer is hereby authorized to receive and hold as a collateral security for the re-payment of the deposit aforesaid; and the company may issue a certificate stating the amount of the deposit, the interest to accrue thereon, the time when, and the terms and conditions on which payment is to be made, which certificate shall be countersigned by a competent person, appointed by the Treasurer, with the assent of the Company; or in case of any other person acting as trustee, then by such person, who shall witness that repayment of such deposit has been secured by a pledge of securities held in trust for that purpose. And the said certificates may be made payable to order or to bearer, and should any certificates not be paid upon demand after the same becomes due and payable, the holder thereof may cause protest to be made, and thirty days notice having been given to the said Company, if the requisite funds be not otherwise provided, it shall be the duty of the Treasurer or Trustee to sell so many of the bonds or other securities held by him in trust as aforesaid, as may be necessary therefor, and with the proceeds of such sales to pay off and discharge the said protested certificates; and the Treasurer or Trustee may receive the interest and dividend falling due on the bonds and securities deposited with him, which, after deducting a reasonable compensation for his services, not exceeding five hundred dollars, shall be paid over to the said Company, who shall pay to the person countersigning their certificates of deposit a reasonable compensation therefor. And whereas, the funds and securities deposited as aforesaid, and the funds and credit into which the same may be converted, will be held by the Company for the benefit of the said depositors, and the taxes thereon, if any, should be paid by the persons to whom said funds and credit properly belong, such deposits, and the funds and credit created thereby, shall not be assessed or taxed as the property of said company.

SEC. 4. The by-laws may prescribe the number of, and the manner in which the Directors, officers and agents of the Company shall be appointed, and designate their terms of service, powers, duties and compensation. The Company shall have an office in this State; but the Directors, under such rules and regulations as they may approve, may establish branches and agencies in this and the other States, and in Europe and elsewhere, and may unite and be consolidated with other Companies, organized in other States for like purposes, and when so united shall not be required to pay a tax upon the shares of such other Companies, unless such shares shall be owned by persons residing in this State; and the Directors may require all their officers and agents to take an oath that they will honestly and faithfully, to the best of their ability, discharge their respective duties.

NUMBER CII.

JOINT PREAMBLE AND RESOLUTION Declaring that death, the extreme penalty of the law, should be inflicted upon the leaders of the rebellion.

WHEREAS, The Constitution of the United States established a National Government, the chief and highest allegiance of all citizens was due that government; the Constitution and laws passed under it, were the supreme law of the land. Rebellion against it was the greatest of crimes; it includes all crimes; and,

WHEREAS, Jefferson Davis and James M. Mason, R. M. T. Hunter, Robert Toombs, Howell Cobb, Judah P. Benjamin, John Slidell, Robert E. Lee and John C. Breckinridge were citizens of that government, in high offices under it, and under oaths to protect and defend it; instigated by pride, lust of power and ambition, they did deliberately conspire together, and with others of less eminence, to overthrow and destroy it; they were the master spirits and instigators of the late wicked rebellion; through their influence, the Treasury of the nation was plundered; its arms were taken and distributed among their followers; its Post Offices, Mints, Arsenal, Magazines, and Forts were seized and held; its small army was betrayed; its navy dispersed over distant seas; its flag at the head of its vessel, on a mission of mercy, was fired at; its guns were turned on its forts, and blood was sprinkled on the face of the people. Bodies of conspirators, under the names of conventions, were suddenly called together, to give color of law to their wicked proceedings, and to deceive and betray the people, and were made to act in haste and with precipitation, spreading terror among the people and disorganizing society. A so-called Confederate States Government was made. It purported to be a Confederacy of Sovereign States. It was an organized military despotism; Jefferson Davis was the despot at its head. The liberties of the people were utterly crushed under its iron rule. A gigantic military force was raised. Plain men and innocent youths were alike either seduced or deceived or pressed into it, and a wicked war was waged against their government. The substance of the country was consumed; industry was paralyzed; towns and cities burned; lands and farms laid waste; and by fire, famine and slaughter, thousands of people perished. Our own Tennessee, the home of him who declared, "The Federal Union, it must and shall be preserved," had ever been faithful to that great sentiment; the accursed doctrine of "secession" never stuck root in its soil. It was never so eloquently denounced as in the proclamation of her own heroic Jackson. After the madness of adjoining sister States, by a majority of sixty-four thousand, her people declared their fidelity and adherence to the Union. A convention, when proposed, was voted down, because it was secession. It was through the base treachery of Isham G. Harris, her then Executive, and the moral cowardice of the majority of her Legislature, and the diabolical agency of Jefferson Davis, then styled President of the Confederate States, that Tennessee, against her deliberate will, was dragged into rebellion; and,

WHEREAS, The aforesaid Jefferson Davis, and his aforesaid accomplices, are recommended as fit subjects of pardon and amnesty; therefore,

Resolved by this General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That for their bad, inimical and great crimes against their fellow citizens and the United States, it is the deliberate sense of this General Assembly, that said Jefferson Davis and his said accomplices have justly forfeited their lives, and that in expiation of their great crime, and as an example for all time, they deserve and ought to suffer the extreme penalty of the law, and be held as infamous forever.
